James was born in 1730 in Versailles, France. There is little information about his past. We have some family stories about who he was but this is what we believe.....

James and his family were entwined with the royal family, he possible was a Huguenot and fled to America.

He married Deborah Hall and had 5 Children.

RETHINKING THE ORIGIN OF
THE "IMMIGRANT" JAMES PURTEE

I've been doing genealogy for 25 years, but it seems that I've spent at least 100 years beating my head against the Purtee family. The Purtee family has been almost as frustrating as my wife's Irish ancestors. Heeding Twila Costello's call to "get active" with Purtee research, I re-examined my notes on the Purtee family, particularly that information pertaining to the origin of our immigrant ancestor, James Purtee.

My thinking until now has been that James Purtee ("Partie" in the earliest records) was somehow related to Benjamin Partee who was first known to be living in Loudon County, VA, in the early 1750s. Benjamin Partee and his family moved to Granville County, NC, before the Revolutionary War. Benjamin Partee's oldest son, Charles Partee, was a colonel in the Continental Army. There is a monument to him in Nashville, TN, that states that he was born in Versailles, France. Consequently, one might conclude that, since the Benjamin Partee family were from Versailles, then James Purtee must have been from Versailles too. I freely admit that this is total speculation, but the great thing about "total speculation" is that it is subject to "total revision."

All of us have heard tales of our "French" heritage. We have heard about George Purtee serving in Lafayette's army in the Revolutionary War (false), or four brothers coming to North America as part of the French Army in the French and Indian War (also false), or other such stories . In my research, I have found that "family traditions" are more often tall tales than they are fact. That raised my suspicions about the origin of James Purtee. All we can go by are facts.

First, we know that James Purtee was in Queen Anne's County, MD, in the period 1755-60. It was then that he married Deborah Hall, the daughter of John Hall. This was during the French and Indian War (1754-63) when there was rampant Francophobia in the Colonies. Certainly, a Frenchman in Maryland would have been unwelcome and regarded with suspicion. Secondly, "James" is not a French name unless it was changed from "Jacques." Also, none of James and Deborah Hall Purtee's children (George, Lewis, John, Hannah, Deborah) have French names. One might suppose that, if James Purtee was French, some of his children might have French names also.

Considering all of the above, I have identified two possibilities:

Possibility #1

In Goodspeed's History of Northeast Arkansas, Mary Partee Golder (b. 1843), a granddaughter of Lewis Partee, identified Lewis Partee as being of French-Canadian ancestry. Realizing that the Acadian Expulsion occurred in 1755, one might question whether James Purtee was an Acadian refugee.

I did some research on the Acadian Expulsion years ago and revisited it recently. I found that four ships left Pisiquid bound for Maryland in October 1755. One boat landed at Baltimore, a second at Annapolis, and a third at Port Tobacco, all on the mainland shore of Chesapeake Bay. The fourth boat, The Ranger, landed on 8 Dec 1755 at Oxford in Talbot County on the Eastern Shore. The Captain of The Ranger, in his haste to return to Boston, unceremoniously dumped all 208 of his passengers on the shore, leaving them to fend for themselves in the dead of winter with no provisions. Some of the local inhabitants took pity on the refugees and housed them at neighboring farms. A very good description of the plight of the Ranger passengers may be found at: http://www.landrystuff.com/ExpulsionShips.html

Oxford is only a short distance from the Tuckahoe District of Queen Anne's County where the John Hall Family lived. I wondered whether John Hall housed Acadian refugees and whether James Purtee, as one of those refugees, ran off with John Hall's daughter, Deborah Hall. In the will of John Hall, dated 27 Nov 1770, it is apparent that he somehow disapproved of his daughter, "Deborah, wife of James Partie," since he left her "five shillings and no more."

A passenger list of The Ranger does not exist, so one is left to study the surnames of all of the Acadians to see whether one of them could have been James Purtee. Fortunately, there are many researchers of Acadian History and there are many websites with extensive information about the Acadians; for example, see www.acadian.org or www.acadian-home.org. Studying the surnames in the 1752 and 1755 Acadian censuses, the closest name to "Purtee" is "Poire" or "Poirier" and there is no one with the given name "Jacques."

Years ago, I corresponded with Lucy LeBlanc Consentino, a prominent researcher of the Acadian Expulsion, about the surname Purtee. She was of the opinion that our ancestor, James Purtee, was not an Acadian. Enticing as the possibility of an Acadian connection is, after a careful re-examination of the facts, I must again conclude that James Purtee was not an Acadian.

Possibility #2

I almost hate to write this, but since we have no smoking gun that James Purtee was French, is it possible that he was not and that his family was living in Maryland in the 1750s? (I have this mental image of Purtee researchers running and screaming and holding their hands over their ears.)

I have reams of early Maryland data in my files and the National SAR Genealogy Library at my disposal in Louisville (less than a mile from my office), so I took a look at early Maryland surnames.

In early Baltimore there was a family by the name of "Potee," which is also seen in records as "Puttee" or "Poteet." The progenitor of this family was Francis Potee, who was born in the 1640s in Colonial Baltimore. He had four sons: Francis, John, Lewis, and Peter. The given name "Lewis" is very common in the Potee family. Note also that "Lewis" is a common given name in the Purtee family.

James Purtee and his sons, George, Lewis, and John lived in Bourbon County, KY, from 1790-1802. The Bourbon County tax records for this period show "Purtee" spelled as "Pettee," "Portaa," "Puttee," "Portee," "Pertee," "Purtee," and "Partee." The similarity of spellings of "Purtee" in the Bourbon County records to those of "Potee" in the Maryland records is undeniable.

Returning to the Francis Potee Family, his son John Potee was born about 1680 and married Elizabeth Craswell. They had a son, John Potee(t), Jr., who born about 1720 and married Ruth Chenoweth. The first son of John Poteet, Jr., was James Poteet, who was born about 1740. Nothing more is known about James Poteet. Could he be our "James Purtee"?

Now, back to the family of James Purtee: James and Deborah Hall Purtee's first child was George Purtee. We do not know the exact year of his birth, but he married his first wife Elizabeth (?) about 1783 and their first child, James Purtee, was born in 1784. Most likely, George Purtee was born about 1760, although some have cited (without proof) his birth year as 1758 or 1756. The last child of James and Deborah Hall Purtee was Deborah Purtee. The daughter Deborah Purtee married Griffith Anderson in 1799 in Bourbon County. James Purtee signed his permission for them to marry which meant that she was under 18 years of age. Therefore, the daughter Deborah Purtee was born in 1781 or 1782. Judging that a woman's childbearing years end in her early 40s (there are many exceptions!), the Deborah Hall Purtee must have been born about 1740.

An independent estimate of Deborah Hall Purtee's birth year may be made from the will of John Hall where he names his nine children in the order of their birth. Lawrence Hall, the seventh child, was born in 1746. Estimating two to three years between children, Deborah Hall, the fifth child, must have been born about 1740. Therefore, James Poteet and Deborah Hall were about the same age.

The family of John Poteet, Jr., moved from Baltimore to Harford County, MD, by the 1750s. Harford County is immediately north of Baltimore County and is situated at northern reach of Chesapeake Bay. James Poteet, growing up in Harford County, would have lived only two counties north of Queen Anne's County on the Eastern Shore (see Maryland county map at http://www.mdgenweb.org/map.htm). Also, interestingly enough, Lewis Purtee, the son of James Purtee, married Mary Ramsey, the daughter of Charles Ramsey of Cecil County, MD, immediately east of Harford County!

Onosmastically, how do the names of the children of James and Deborah Hall Purtee compare to the names in the Poteet and Hall families? Very well, as it turns out:

George Purtee: George Hall was the oldest brother of Deborah Hall Purtee. His father, John Hall left him "five shillings and no more," same as Deborah Hall Purtee.

Lewis Purtee: The are many Potee/Poteet family members by this given name.

John Purtee: James Poteet had a father and a brother named John. Deborah Hall Purtee had a brother named John Hall.

Hannah Purtee: James Poteet had a sister named Hannah.

Deborah Purtee: Undoubtedly named after Deborah Hall Purtee.

So here's my guess (again, pure speculation): A very young James Poteet of Harford County met an equally young Deborah Hall of Queen Anne's County. They fell in love and eloped over the wishes of her father, John Hall. John Hall never forgave his daughter and left her "five shillings, no more" in his will. It is even possible that Deborah Hall Purtee's oldest brother, George Hall, was sympathetic to the young couple and was similarly diminished in John Hall's will.

So what about Francis Potee, born in the 1640s in Baltimore? What is his origin? His parents were John and Ann "Poteete," who came to Virginia from Italy in 1639. The name "Potee" is of French origin and means "potful." Glen Cooper, a professional historian, speculates that John and Ann Poteete may have been part of a group of French Waldensians who took refuge in the Piedmont area of Italy in the 12th century. The Catholic Duke of Savoy persecuted the Waldensians in the 1600s and many of them left via The Netherlands for "New Holland" in America. Lawrence Hall in Kentucky

<< Previous Next >>

Bob Ullrich - Jan 24, 2003 View | Viewers | Reply to this item

Hey!

I'm not sure how significant this is, however I feel compelled to post it. I discovered recently that Lawrence Hall, a younger brother of Deborah Hall Purtee, was living in Bourbon County, KY, at the same time as James and Deborah Purtee.

Lawrence Hall was born in 1744 in Queen Anne's County, MD, and married Henrietta Sylvester there. They had two sons, Sylvester and Robert Hall. Henrietta Sylvester Hall died in 1779 and Lawrence Hall continued to live in Queen Anne's County at least until 1790 when he was enumerated in the census of MD.

Lawrence Hall first appeared on the Bourbon County tax rolls in 1792. He married a second time to Lydia McArthur in Bourbon County in 1792 and they had several children. Lawrence Hall died in 1822 in Bourbon County. Most of his children married in Kentucky but moved to Missouri.

I don't know of any connections that the Hall and Purtee families may have had in Bourbon County but I'll keep an eye on it in the future.

Bob.

Thats a neat find,Bob! Do you know when James and Debroah came to OH? I have nothing beyond John clinton Purtee. My Dad always said that grandmas family was from KY, and this is the first thing I've found to verify that. Thanks.

Venita,

George Purtee (the son of James Purtee) last paid taxes in Bourbon County, KY, in 1802. I assume that George moved to Ohio the next year since he disappeared from the Bourbon County tax rolls after 1802. The earliest Adams County, OH, record of George Purtee is on an 1805 list of voters.

I have not found any evidence of James and/or Deborah Purtee in Ohio. My best guess is that both died before George Purtee moved to Ohio (and indeed this may be the reason that George moved). The last record I have of James Purtee is his permission, given in 1799, for his daughter Deborah to marry Griffith Anderson in Bourbon County, KY.

Bob, Can you post the source of your information about Lawrence Hall and his family?
Thanks!
Dave

Dave,

General info about Lawrence Hall's family may be found on Ancestry.com. Of course, the 1790 MD census info, as well as the 1810 and 1820 KY census info, is available anywhere (e.g., Ancestry.com). Lawrence Hall's 1792 marriage in Bourbon County, as well as the Bourbon County tax info, is on the US Genweb Bourbon County page. Hope this helps.

I thought James and Debroah were John Clintons parents, and George was James father and Georges father was named James too. I may have the wrong info, can someone tell me the people back from John Clinton, please?

Carol Zemke - Jan 28, 2003 Viewers | Reply to this item

Venita, John Clinton's parents were James Purtee & Elizabeth Carter, then George & Elizabeth, then James & Deborah. I ran a report and was going to send it via email but it's 106 pages. If you go to http://www.purteefamily.org and click on the family tree you'll find all of the information you need. I hope to update this soon.

Thanks for all the info, I found the website and copied all those pages. Will sort through later. I bought a scanner but so far I can get a picture on the screen but I can't send it, so am working on sending some pictures I have of my gr. grandpa Purtee. Carol I will send rest of family run down as soon as I can get it together.
I appreciate all you "cousins" have done to help!!!

I also have some pictures to send which I have scanned, I cannot send them. I keep getting a message that they are in the wrong format. If anyone can help me figure this out I will post these pictures.
Some of them are of Glenn Purtee.
I will also have a new one to post. My granddaughter Tanya Eyster just had a baby boy today named Keyton Elihu Brown. Hiram Purtee was his great,great,great grandfather.
Thanks, Anne

Notes for MARY ANN ZELLERS:
The following is a newspaper clipping dated August 7, 1922: " On Saturday afternoon occurred the funeral of Mrs Mary A. Partee who was laid to rest beside the husband who preceded her nearly thirty years ago. In her passing, one of the oldest residents of Defiance County goes from our midst. If she had remained but three weeks longer she would have celebrated her ninety-second birthday--but mercifully she has slipped away to the place where there is no more pain, neither sorrow nor care. Coming with her parents, Mr and Mrs Peter Zeller to Brunersburg, Ohio, at the age of seven years, she began her long life among us; the family membered four sisters, who became Mrs Sarah Bruner, Mrs Katherine Partee, Mrs Frank Manchester, Mrs James R. Crockett, and one brother, Mr Peter Zeller of Belmore, Ohio, all of whom survive, excepting the third and all reside in Defiance, excepting the brother who lives in Belmore, Ohio. They with a few of our oldest residents, still cherish....(original clipping is damaged here)

At the age of eighteen occurred her marriage to John P. Partee, son of James Partee, whose farm on the banks of Tiffin river became the home of her early married life, where were born her four children, two passing on in childhood, the remaining two daughters growing to womanhood, the older to become the bride of a young officer of the Civil War, Captain James F. Crandall, who resides at the present time in Colorado, the younger became the wife of Calvin L. Wiltshire of Indiana.

As the years sped on the family circle increased to eleven grandchildren, three growing to manhood and womanhood, about her, all but one, Mrs Frank Miller, drifting out into the Marto of the world, some never to return, as the "ships that pass in the night."

The grandchildren of the Crandall family are Charles T. (deceased), Mrs Frank G. Miller, John N., Myrta (deceased), Eve (deceased), and Mrs Helen L. Smith. Of the Wiltshire family: Mrs. Mabel, Mary, Charles and Wallace.

In April, 1893, Mrs. Partee was left a widow and since that time has resided in the old home on the hill upon which she has seen three generations grown to maturity---her own, then the Crandall grandchildren and in the last eighteen years the great grandchildren who are Dorothy C. Miller, Edward "Bob" , Marjorie and Jimmie. Two great grandsons Paul and

Notes for SARAH ANN PARTEE:

In 1976, I corresponded with a cousin in Toledo, Ohio named Marjorie "Bide" Miller Conyers. She wrote me with some interesting letters concerning James and Sallie. "Jumping back to the Crandalls- Jim Crandall...had a sister, Louisa, who they called "Weedie", who married Samuel Rohn and lived in Defiance. I think it was through Jim's coming from the east to visit this sister that he met grandma, Sarah, whom they always called Sallie. (She insisted it be spelled that way). She was living with her parents in Brunersburg and was said to be the most beautiful girl in the countryside. Jim fell in love and I think that explains why he settled in Defiance. He was 10 years older than grandma. he was a handsome young man who had already served in the Civil War. He was evidently in demand as a speaker because of an article last year in the Toledo Blade giving a little rundown of how the 4th of July had been observed 100 years ago, carried this little item among other things: 'Antwerp is very

He was born May 07, 1874 in Defiance, Ohio, son of [illegible] and [illegible]. He was born [illegible], 28, 1814 in Smithville, New York, and died October 04, 1921 in Dayton, Ohio soldier/ [illegible].

Notes for SARAH ANN PARROT:

In 1920, I corresponded with a woman in Toledo, Ohio named Marjorie "Bobbe" Miller Conyers. She wrote me with some interesting letters concerning James and Sallie. Jumping back to the Crandall- Jim Crandall had a sister, Luella, who they called "Vivvie", who married Samuel Robinson and lived in Defiance. I think it was through Jim's coming from the east to visit this sister that he met grandma. Sarah, whom they always called Sallie. (She insisted it be spelled that way.) She was living with her parents in Kenton,Ohio and was said to be the most beautiful girl in the country side. Jim fell in love and I think that explains why he settled in Defiance. He was 10 years older than grandma. He was a handsome young man who had already served in the Civil War. He was evidently in demand as a speaker because of an article last year in the Toledo Blade giving a little rundown of how the 4th of July had been observed 100 years ago, carried this little item among other things: "Attorney is very much excited over the coming celebration. There will be a parade headed by a band of 38 girls to represent the Goddess of Liberty and her 37 stars. There was an oration by the eloquent Mr. Crandall of Defiance.' I suppose you know that he volunteered to serve in the Spanish-American War when he was about 50 years old, and headed up the company from Defiance and surrounding countryside. He was made captain and went to Cuba." In another letter, written in 1977, Bide writes: "Grandpa and Grandma Partee (John P. and Mary) bought a big lot on the Maumee River in 1863 and built a house. In fact, there were two houses on the lot built exactly alike. I don't know if John built them both or if the second was built when James Crandall married Sallie. In any event, the two families lived there side by side for many years...Most of the Crandalls had been born in that house and all four of us Millers were born there. Grandma Partee (Sallie's mother)lived next door in her charming house which was not modernized. She still had a cistern and an outside bathroom, feather beds, beautiful handmade quilts, lovely old furniture, some of which had been made by her father, Peter Zellers. She was a vigorous, sturdy, determined little woman....She had no expenses other than her own "keep" because my Dad (Miller) paid the taxes, etc. In the early years, she still kept chickens which provided her with eggs and meat. She did enough canning to take care of her on many vegetables, fruit, jams and jellies. She dried corn the old-fashioned was. When her money finally ran low, Grandpa and Grandma Crandall (James and Sallie) sent her a small stipend each month for actual cash and my parents did a great deal, too. Dad often bought extra coal or wood for her when he was buying for us...Grandma was always so clean and starched and made delicious cookies. She had her own little garden for years, and tended it herself. Dad had it ploughed but she took it from there. She still was doing that when she was well up in her 80's. I can see her yet in her sunbonnet, out pulling weeds of watering. Your grandparents (John and Kathleen Crandall) always loved to come back to Defiance because that was Uncle Johns old home, too. He had many fond memories of swimming in the river and so many things. He loved to talk to his sister "Puss", as they called my mother, Edith May. She used to cook up a storm and we had wonderful picnics on our picnic table on the hill. It was such a change from their Chicago hustle-bustle. So restful for Uncle John".

Notes for JAMES FRANKLIN CRANDALL:
James Franklin Crandall served in the Civil War and wrote this letter sometime after 1900:

Dear Mamma:

I was born in Smithville, Chenango County, New York on February 28, 1844. I served in the Civil War in the 52d Regt. Illinois Volunteers as Sergeant and First Sergeant from August 15, 1861 to September 20, 1864. In the 8th US Artillery Heavy (C) from last above date as 2d Lt. to March 20, 1866. Was married to Sarah A. Partee at Defiance, Ohio by Rev B.W. Slagle of said above named city on May 7, 1874.

Served in the Spanish American War in the U.S. and Cuba from June 2, 1898 until May 29, 1899. (My great-grandfather was 54 years old when he volunteered for Spanish-American Service. His Civil War uniform, sword, and cap are still in my possession. His rifle, US Springfield Long Rifle, is in the possession of my brother, Robert Isaacson.

In the book "History of Defiance County, Ohio-1883", I found the following reference to James Franklin: "On the evening of January 19, 1875, the following gentlemen met in the lodge room of the Sons of Temperance in Peterson's block, for the purpose of organizing a lodge of Knights of Honor of the World". Among those inducted were James Franklin Crandall and his brother Lysander.

The following is taken from the "Livermore Family in America", Walter Eliot Thwing, W.B. Clarke, 1902:
"James Franklin Crandall was born February 28, 1844, in Smithville, NY; married May 7, 1874, in Defiance, Ohio, Sarah Ann, daughter of John P. and Mary Ann Partee, born there March 29, 1854. He moved with his parents to Seville, Ohio in the fall of 1854, and then to Ashtabula, his father having been called there as Pastor of the First Baptist Church. He was educated in the common and union schools, and in December 1860, started West to make his fortune, locating in Kanesville, Kane Co, Illinois, where he became a clerk in a general store kept by his brother-in-law, Bela A. Coy. He enlisted August 13, 1861 in Company A, 52nd Regt, Ill Vols, and was appointed a sergeant. At the battle of Corinth, Miss, he was promoted to first sergeant; he took part in the battles at Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Corinth, Chewalla, Big Bear Creek, and the Atlanta campaign. On Sept 20, 1864, he was commissioned 2nd Lt in the 8th U.S.C. Heavy Artillery, and ordered to Paducah, Ky where he was assigned by the regimental commander to the recruiting service to recruit a company (L) for the completion of the regiment, which he did; the regiment was ordered to Washington, D.C. in March, 1865, then to City Point, Va; then to Richmond, and finally to Victoria, Texas where they were stationed until March 20, 1866 when they were mustered out. After the war he settled in Defiance, Ohio and engaged with his brother, Lysander Emerson Crandall, in the dry goods business under the firm name of Crandall Brothers. In 1892 he was elected a member of the city council, re-elected in 1894, and chosen its president. At the breaking out of the war with Spain, he was commissioned Captain in the 6th U.S. Regiment, Ohio Vols serving in the United States and Cuba. He is now in the U.S. Mail service in Chicago, IL where he lives with the family."

Notes for JOHN NELSON CRANDALL:
"Ten dollars a month rent for a seven-room house on Madison Avenue in Brookfield, Illinois, which was increased to $12 a month after a few months because the landlord installed a new furnace. This fact was recalled this week by Mr and Mrs John N. Crandall, who first came to Brookfield in 1903. Mr Crandall, manager of the Chicago Telegraph Office of the Burlington Lines, is retiring this week after completing 48 years of service with the company. Next week, they plan to leave for Pomona, Calif. where they recently purchased a home..." So states a newspaper article written August 12, 1948 in the Brookfield Magnet. Notes for EARTHA COMMAN:
Gemma Crandall was an experienced seamstress and made most of my dressy clothes when I was young. She also had an eye for decorating and excellent taste. Her home was full of beautiful cut glass, oriental rugs, and books. She was a very imposing looking woman. Her white hair was pulled back in waves and her dark eyes flashed. My brother and I were rather afraid of her. She had little patience for our behavior and insisted on her house rules. But, our grandfather was kind, loving and sweet and we would wait for his arrival every night. He worked in the "Loop" in Chicago at the Burlington Railroad as its chief telegrapher. He would ride the train in the morning and back at night. We would watch for him walking across the vacant lot on the corner and run for him to be scooped up in his arms and carried back to the house. After dinner, which was always delicious as Gramma was about the best cook in the world, we would sit in the little garden room with the chairs that had lion head arms, and he would read the newspaper to us. I remember the Sunday morning in 1941, listening to Gabriel Heatter on his big Edison radio, that the War had started with the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Both my grandparents cried.

Notes for JOAN NATHALIA CRANDALL:

My mother was a very pretty woman and one of my earliest memories of her was when I was 3 or 4 years old. She and Dad were going out for the evening and before they left, she came to my room to tuck me in for the night. Her dark, curly hair was pulled up into a pompador in front and sides and the rest softly curled down her back. She was dressed in a red jersey dress with black polka dots. A black cross with black jet beads hung around her neck and she smelled of "Straw Hat" perfume. i was certain that no other mother in the world was more beautiful.

Mother attended and graduated from Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois. She majored in literature and fine arts and was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She was a school teacher for one year before her marriage to my father and taught in a one room school near Knoxville, Illinois. Her pay was $40 per month and she had to provide her own coal. She and Dad were dating during this time and he would come before he went to work and light her little coal stove. Teachers had to sign contracts that they would not marry while performing their teaching duties. She and Dad decided to marry and that ended her teaching career until the late 1950's when things changed. She returned to the public elementary school system in Galesburg, Illinois and taught there until one year before her death. She was a dedicated teacher and loved her work. I spoke with one of her co-workers, after her death, who said " the world would be a lonely place without Joannie". How true it is.

Mom and Dad did skits and performed their Swedish immigrant act for many clubs, reunions, and even the Iowa State Fair. Our family friend, Warren First, accompanied them on the piano or organ. Mom had severe stage fright, so Dad assured her that all she would have to do is stand and stare and he'd do the rest, and he did! Mom, dressed in a hokey dress and a black flat straw hat with a sunflower standing on a tall stem in the front, would dead pan the audience while Dad, dressed in a black frock coat, red wig and black pork pie hat, would tell stories, cajole her, talk with a Swedish accent and thoroughly delight the audience. How she could stand there without cracking a smile was a talent in itself. The act would close with Dad giving the "Swedish Ball Game" (Run, Oley, run!) and them singing harmony to "Wait Till the Sun Shines Nellie" and When you wore a Tulip and I wore a Big Red Rose".

Two days before she unexpectedly died of a heart attack, she called me and told me she couldn't have had a finer daughter. To the very end she was selfless and thinking of others. Very few daughters are given the chance to hear those words and be able to say I love you, Mom.

dress with black polka dots. A black cross with black jet beads hung around her neck and she smelled of "Straw Hat" perfume. I was certain that no other mother in the world was more beautiful.

Mother attended and graduated from Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois. She majored in literature and fine arts and was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She was a school teacher for one year before her marriage to my father and taught in a one room school near Knoxville, Illinois. Her pay was $40 per month and she had to provide her own coal. She and Dad were dating during this time and he would come before he went to work and light her little coal stove. Teachers had to sign contracts that they would not marry while performing their teaching duties. She and Dad decided to marry and that ended her teaching career until the late 1920's when things changed. She returned to the public elementary school system in Galesburg, Illinois and taught there until one year before her death. She was a dedicated teacher and loved her work. I spoke with one of her ex-students, after her death, who said " the world would be a lonely place without Jeanette. How true it is.

Mom and Dad did skits and procurred their swedish musicians act for many clubs, reunions, and even the Iowa State Fair. Our family toured Warren Starr, accompanied them on the piano or organ. Mom had severe stage fright, so I had learned her that at the tender ages to do is stand and stare and he'll do the rest, and he did! Mom, dressed in a long dress and a black flat straw hat with a sunflower standing on a tall stem in the front, would lead pin the audience while Dad, dressed in a black frock coat, red wig and black pork pie hat, would roll stories, cajole her, talk with a Swedish accent and thoroughly delight the audience. How she could sound there without crowing a smile was a talent in itself. The act would close with Dad giving the "Swedish Hall Cheer" (Rum, Olay, rum) and then singing harmony to "Wait Till the Sun Shines Nellie" and When you were a Tulip and I were a Big Red Rose".

Two days before she unexpectedly died of a heart attack, she called me and told me she couldn't have had a finer daughter. It is the very end she was selfless and thinking of others. Very few daughters are given the chance to hear those words and be able to say I love you, Mom.

Notes for CAROL JOAN ISAACSON:
Carol was born in the Cottage Hospital in Galesburg, IL. She and her brother, Bob, were raised in the house at 433 Olive St. in Galesburg. The home had formerly belonged to her grandparents, John and Amanda Isaacson. She attended LT Stone Elementary School, Hitchcock Junior High School and graduated from Galesburg Senior High. Her young years were spent during World War II and many of her cousins served in the Armed Services. With rationing in place, candy was a very coveted item. Once a month, the little local grocery store(Danielsons) would receive a shipment of bubble gum. The neighborhood kids (Darlene and Kenny Vogel, Maryann and Johnny Maxwell, Larry Stewart, Richard, Junie Stotts and Bob and Carol) would line up early in the morning to get a months supply of bubble gum and licorice. What a treat! The war years brought with them many sacrifices for the civilian population. Most of our food was going overseas to feed our troops. So, the government decided to have us grow Victory Gardens. A vacant lot in our neighborhood was divided between several families. We had a spot across from Anne and Harold Snyder. Daddy planted tomatoes, peppers, potatoes, peas, onions, and cabbages. Daylight Savings Time was started so that the gardeners would have an extra hour of time to spend in their gardens after work. I can remember carting bushel baskets of vegetables home in my wagon for Mom to can. Daddy tried to enlist in the war, but because he was an electrician, and was necessary for the civilian defense, the Armed Forces would not allow it. Instead, he became a block warden. During blackouts and drills, Dad would don his white steel helmet and jacket with the civilian defense emblem and go out into the streets to patrol the neighborhood. It was very impressive to see his flashlight going up and down the street as it was the only light to be seen. The neighborhood was a special place where kids played kick the can under the corner street light, hunted fire flies, and laid outside on big blankets on hot summer nights. TV didn't come to the neighborhood until 1949. Everyone would rush home and come to our house (we had the first TV) to watch Howdy Doody! What a miracle. Before TV, radio played a big part of our weekend. Saturday morning we would listen to Jack Armstrong the All-American Boy, The Shadow and Fairytale Theater. My cousin, John Lindbeck, had a crystal radio which he had made. We used to listen to the scratchy sounds and think that he was so smart. Her high school years were spent with activities such as Swim Team, Drama Club and Debate. Carol and Don met at the Golden Nugget Restaurant on Main Street. We were there after a basketball game and a group of college boys came in. A very handsome one turned toward Carol and winked. She winked back and the rest is history!

Notes for DONALD RAE ADAMS:
Don and Dennie were born at home in Symmes Township. They were born in a rental home that was located on Cherry Point Drive. The home burned down in the 1960's. The family ~~then~~ moved across the railroad tracks to the home that was purchased in 1938. In 1998, the little home is still standing. Harold built a house, next door, for his parents, Joe and Catherine, in the 1940's. That house is still occupied. Catherine moved in town to the house on Elizabeth Street in 1950, after Joe died in 1946.

The Adams boys (Don, Dennis, Dale and Steve) attended Plum Grove School. It was a one room rural school that was located approx one mile west of their home. The boys walked to and from school every day. They attended high school in Paris, Don went on to Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois. There he entered ROTC and after graduation entered the US Army. He and Carol were first stationed at Ft Knox, Kentucky, where their first son, Mark, was born at the military hospital on base. Don was sent to Landshut Germany as part of a gyroscope movement of the 11th Armored Cavalry. He served as a platoon leader of a Reconnaissance Platoon. The mission of the 11th Armd Cav was to patrol and observe the German-Czech Border during the European Cold War. His recollection of the most serious event during the 35 months served there occurred in 1959. The 2nd battalion (which was located in Landshut) was sent to Northern Germany to the British Sector where they were billeted at the Bergen Belson Concentration Camp (where Anne Frank died). They went under the pretext of a tank shoot-off but the real reason was that Premier Kruschev had threatened to close the Autobahn to Berlin which was the only supply route for the American troops. Our Battalion (about 2500 men) made a road march, as a show of force, around the camp the day he was intending to close down the route. Much to our relief, he backed down and did not close the Autobahn. Even though it was the British sector, American troops were going to be used to force Krushev's hand. Had he closed the route, American troops were prepared to make a road march down the Autobahn to Berlin. History hasn't changed much as the same show of force was used during Desert Storm and Desert Fox. While there, their second child, Lynne Kathleen, was born. She was premature and lived for 5 days, succumbing to moderate bilateral atelectasis. She is buried in the cemetery in Munich, Germany. A second son, Jon, was born at the US Military Hospital in Munich. They lived in officers housing at the base in Landshut. Their apartment was on the third floor and had a beautiful view of the area. Family trips to watch the gliders at an airport north of Landshut was fun for all. Don served in a border unit and the tanks were driven to and from their billet. When the tanks were many miles away, you could feel the vibration and Mark would fly to the window to watch his daddy return from the monthly alerts and field duty. The family was in the Army from January, 1956 until May, 1960. They returned to the US in February 1960. Don went to Ft Hood, Texas to be mustered out and Carol, and family, stayed with her parents in Galesburg, Illinois where their third son, Rob, was born at St Marys Hospital. Don got a job with Wabash Fibre Box in Terre Haute, Ind. The family lived in rental houses on 13th St and Howard Subdivision. While in Terre Haute, their two daughters, Susan and Amy were born. Don was transferred to St Marys, Ohio in 1964 and stayed there at 322 Concord St. Don returned to Paris in 1967 where he began working for his father in the grain business. The elevators were sold in 1977 and Don moved to Flanagan, IL where he managed Flanagan Farmers Grain. In 1981, he moved to Chestnut, IL where he managed Chestnut Farmers Grain until his retirement in 1996. Don and Carol moved to Houston, Texas after retirement to be near their four children, Jon, Rob, Susan and Amy.

Funny Facts and Figures of Flores Family

The Flores and Petersons have much intermarried. They have held an annual reunion for 30 years. Sometimes a thousand relatives and friends gather.

1796—Joe Watkins was deeded 500 Christ. The writer is one of four in direct line baptized in the same stream, Brush Creek, viz: John, Lewis, Cynthia, etc.

Two sons of John, Josiah (my husband's father), and Lewis (my mother's father), each purchased one hundred acres of this 500 acre U. S. land grant and two daughters the remainder. A daughter, Druza (Flores) Peterson, mother of ten children, occupied the old homestead. Her son, Roy, is present occupant and owner. My mother was a Flores and I married a Flores. My husband and I were born on these adjoining farms, exactly one year apart, same physician attending at births, and twenty-eight years later attended at the birth of our son, at Lewis' old log homestead, my mother's and my birthplace. Seven generations of Flores in direct line have set foot upon its soil. There are eight generations from Albright Flores to our grandchildren.

As far as I know everything I have has either come from my mother-in-law, or was done from an on-line search, probably the LDS site... I do have a note in the file on Nancy Williams that is "From Holland?". It's been a while since I helped my wife get started searching, but I know all the information on John W. Lawrence has come from on-line research.

Now that brings up some questions.... I have 2 Lewis Partee's in my file: one born 1802, married Diana Webb... The second was born 1763, married Mary Ramsey. Where does your Lewis Partee and Hannah Louisa Cassil fit in to the decendency/ancenstory tree?

I just received this from Evelyn Huff

Hi there my Partee and Purtee cousins! I am so excited. I have found a cousin, Rus Partee who has graciously shared a photocopy of Lewis and Diana (Webb) Purtee's bible record:

Lewis Purtee son of John and Nancy Purtee born Febuary 15, 1802 in Colerain Twp, Ross Co, Ohio. Diana Webb, daughter of Obadiah and Catharine Webb born December 12, 1804, Pennsylvania. Lewis Purtee and Diana Webb married October 1827 in Defiance, Twp, Williams Co, Ohio by Geo Lance, Esq.

Births: Mary Ann August 22, 1827
George January 20, 1829
Joseph June 8, 1831
Rebecca May 8, 1833

Couple of interesting notes: There are twin girls in the family: Sarah Ann and Anna Maria who were born December 17, 1849 and both died as toddlers, in 1851 (see above). And, in this line it seems the spelling change went to Partee after David Miller married Mary A. Purtee in 1851. Can't tell you what this means, but... it's there.

Carol - thank you for this wonderful information! If I read correctly, Mary Ann was born several months before Lewis & Dianna married.

Do you have an email, or address for Rus so I can state my source?

Thanks!
Jane

I have found with other families of early setters when the marriage date is recorded after the birth of a child...
There may not have been a place to register the marriage. It may have taken a trip into a larger town to do so, or even waited for their town to grow enough to have a place to have records. Having the marriage recorded was not as important as the marriage itself. Just as births may have been recored months after the actual birth. We are thankful for the families that did take the time to register :)

Sorry Jane, I don't have his address but I'll see if I can reach Evelyn and get back to you.

June 5, 1992

TO: Joan Purtee
Roena Bayes ✓

FROM: Bob Ullrich Bob

SUBJECT: The Purtees in Kentucky

This story is by no means finished. However, I have turned over so many facts that I think you should be briefed on my progress. I may have sent you some of this material already, so please bear with any repetition. I would appreciate comments, ideas, and suggestions.

Bourbon County Tax Records: A transcription of these records is enclosed. The records show that George Purtee paid taxes from 1790 through 1802, James Purtee paid taxes from 1790 through 1796, Lewis Purtee paid taxes in 1792 and 1793, and John Purtee paid taxes from 1795 through 1797.

Bourbon County Marriage Records: Microfilm of the original marriage records show two Purtee marriages:

Hannah Pertee married Joseph Clems, 17 Jan 1792

Deborah Purtee married Griffith Anderson, 7 Feb 1799

I obtained copies of the marriage bonds (enclosed). Note that the dates on the bonds predate the actual marriage dates. The marriage records indicate that Hannah Pertee was the daughter of James Pertee. Also, James Purtee signed the bond for Deborah Purtee, which indicates that he was living in 1799 but not paying taxes. Historians at the Kentucky Historical Society tell me that this would be possible if James Purtee "broke up housekeeping," for example, moved in with a son or daughter as a dependent.

Hannah Purtee Clems: The only information I can find on the Joseph Clems family is that Joseph Clems paid taxes in Bourbon County in 1796 and 1797. Also, there is a Joseph Clem in the 1810 census of Montgomery County, which was formed from part of Bourbon County. That census record is enclosed. It's hard to reconcile the ages of persons in this family to the known marriage date for Joseph Clems and Hannah Purtee. Perhaps the census record is for two families living together.

OTHER EARLY SETTLERS

The main points of location of the early settlers were, in general, along White and Strawberry rivers. Among the early settlers in the vicinity of the former stream were Henry and Elbert Benbrook, Daniel Hively, William Clifton, Daniel McCoy, Moses Bishop, George and James Partee, the Harrises, the Dillards and the Jefferys. Daniel Jeffery settled below what is now the town of Mt. Olive. Jehoida Jeffery, brother of Daniel, settled about a mile above, and James, another brother, near the mouth of Piney Creek. There were four of the Harris brothers, Augustus, Henry, James and Richard. Augustus located on the east side of the river, the others on the opposite side, now Stone County. Daniel Hively settled at the mouth of Piney Creek and built a water power mill, the first in the county. Among the first to locate on Strawberry River were the Simpsons, Billingsleys and Finleys. James Wren early resided at Lunenburg and John Gray located on Rocky Bayou near there.

cultivation. Within Ohio, Holmes County farmers rank second in oat and hay production, as well as in dairy farming. Manufacturing positions finish a close second, with furniture being one of the primary products that Holmes County residents produce. The town of Trail also has a meat-processing plant, which produces trail bologna. In 1999, the per capita income in the county was 17,591 dollars, with ten percent of the people living in poverty.

Millersburg is the county seat of Holmes County. In 1824, Charles Miller and Adam Johnson surveyed the town. The town became the county seat the following year.

The town grew slowly, having only 673 residents by 1840. In 1844, a fire erupted in the town, destroying much of Millersburg. In 1846, the village contained four churches, two newspaper offices, thirteen stores, one iron foundry, and one grist mill. Over the next forty years, Millersburg's population tripled in size, having a population of 1,814 people in 1880. The town consisted of two newspaper offices, seven churches, two banks, and several additional manufacturing businesses. The town's largest employer was Henry Snyder, a tile manufacturer, who employed twelve workers. Most businesses provided materials to farmers in the surrounding countryside or processed the farmers' crops. The same remains true today. In 2000, Millersburg's population was 3,326 people, making it the sixth largest urban center in Holmes County.

east side of the river, the others on the opposite side, now Stone County. Daniel Hively settled at the mouth of Piney Creek and built a water power mill, the first in the county. Among the first to locate on Strawberry River were the Simpsons, Billingsleys and Finleys. James Wren early resided at Lunenburg and John Gray located on Rocky Bayou near there.

Later came Robert and William Powell, Thomas Richardson, Samuel Bingham, William and James Woods, Col. Thomas Black, Jesse Hinkle, the Robinsons, the Walkers, the Lancasters, the Arnolds and the Watkinses. Both the early and the subsequent settlers came from Tennessee, although a few were from other states, mostly Southern states.

The early settlers of the White River country had very little trouble with the Indians. About the time that law was first enforced in the country, under the Territorial government of Missouri, the south side of the river from a point beginning at the mountain at the head of Hardin's Bluff, five miles above Batesville and extending up the river indefinitely, was ceded to the Cherokees, and known as the Cherokee grant, but for some cause they never moved to it. However, the Shawnee tribe was moved to this grant in 1819.

Franklin and the latter Wild Haws.

The little log house in which the second post office was established in Izard County still stands near LaCrosse. Nearby is a large brick building which was erected by Owen Watkins in 1853. At that time it was the finest house of its kind in north Arkansas. Today it is in good repair and still used as a dwelling, owned by W.W. Fudge of Melbourne.

Supplies were first brought across the country from old Jacksonport landing, situated on White River about six miles above Newport. Later they were brought frorn Batesville. Still later they were landed about a mile above the location where the town of Guion now stands, and brought across the country in a northeastern direction to the towns of Wild Haws and Franklin. This place became known as Wild Haws landing.

Since most of Izard County at that time was prairie and there were but few large trees, the cattle business became very profitable. In the early "fifties" cattle buyers would buy up large droves of cattle and drive them across the country to Kansas City, which was the nearest railroad town. It would usually take about six months to make one of these trips and such would be accompanied by severe hardships and adventure. The hard ground covered with grass and leaves served as lodging places and wild game of the woods supplied the food. No doubt the sport of the trip compensated for all hardships.

The late Tom Watkins of LaCrosse states that during the early days of his father, the closest church house was at Batesville. He tells of one occasion when his father attended church there. The church was a large one-room structure built of logs. People for miles around came with their guns and dogs. Upon entering the house the guns were stacked against the wall, the preacher began his sermon and in a short time the dogs started a bear. The preacher said: "The service is adjourned in order that the men may kill that bear." They rolled out with alacrity, mounted their horses, pursued Bruin and killed him. He was hung to a tree ready for skinning and then they went back into the house where the preacher thanked God for men who knew how to shoot and women who knew how to pray, and finished his sermon.

FIRST COUNTY SEATS

IZARD COUNTY was the thirteenth county to be formed of the Territory of Arkansas, and was created by an Act of the Legislature October 27, 1825. It was named in honor of George Izard, governor of the territory.

It was formed of territory taken from Independence County and ran from the Independence County line to the Missouri line, touching Crawford County on the northwest corner where White River enters Arkansas. The river formed the southwestern boundary. Since that time territory has been cut off in the formation of Fulton, Baxter and Stone counties,

The original county seat was located on White River, at the mouth of Big North Fork, now in Baxter County. There stood the house of Jacob Wolf which was designated as the temporary seat of justice. The house was erected as a dwelling and trading post in 1809. Mr. Wolf ran a blacksmith shop, store and trading post there, and most of his dealings were with the Indians.

The building came into use as the county's courthouse in 1829. Prior to that time all

Hey!

I'm not sure how significant this is, however I feel compelled to post it. I discovered recently that Lawrer younger brother of Deborah Hall Purtee, was living in Bourbon County, KY, at the same time as James and Purtee.

Lawrence Hall was born in 1744 in Queen Anne's County, MD, and married Henrietta Sylvester there. The sons, Sylvester and Robert Hall. Henrietta Sylvester Hall died in 1779 and Lawrence Hall continued to live Anne's County at least until 1790 when he was enumerated in the census of MD.

Lawrence Hall first appeared on the Bourbon County tax rolls in 1792. He married a second time to Lydia in Bourbon County in 1792 and they had several children. Lawrence Hall died in 1822 in Bourbon County his children married in Kentucky but moved to Missouri.

I don't know of any connections that the Hall and Purtee families may have had in Bourbon County but I'll eye on it in the future.
